

Your care navigator recommends: the pharmacist in your GP practice

Details: Pharmacists are experts in medicine and are increasingly working alongside GPs in practices to handle medicines-related work.

Working this way not only allows GPs more time to focus on patients with complex health needs but it means patients get the very best care when it comes to medicines-related issues from the experts in medicine.

Pharmacists carry out medicine reviews, authorise repeat prescriptions and liaise with community pharmacists. They also help patients who are housebound or in nursing homes, handle medication queries and support patients recently discharged from hospital amongst other things.

If your care navigator recommends speaking with the practice pharmacist, they will give you more information about this at the time.

Contact: If you would like to find out more about the pharmacist in your local practice and the services provided, please speak to a member of staff.
